

SPF ≠ BFF

Lies your sunscreen tells you

RAND ON THE RUN

Go Galt! Right-wingers
head for the hills

GOOD NIGHT AND...

Can democracy survive
the end of news?

NICE MELONS!

But what's their water footprint?

Mother Jones

SMART, FEARLESS JOURNALISM
MotherJones.com

July + August 2009 | $5.95

totally wasted

We've blown $300 billion.

Death squads roam Mexico.

Cartels operate in 259 US cities.

This is your War on Drugs.

any questions?

Charles Bowden: Running from the narcostate William T. Vollmann: Torch songs of the drug lords Kevin Drum: Will Obama legalize? WTF: The feds scored dope for Joe McCarthy?!

EVERYTHING MUST GO

PHOTOGRAPHS BY BRIAN ULRICH

Since January 2008, 221,000 retail stores nationwide have gone out of business. Here's a partial list of store deaths within a one-block radius of MoJo's San Francisco office: The New Balance store in our building quietly pulled up stakes. So did a Gap, a Shoe Pavilion, a men's clothing store, and a retailer of fancy writing accessories. Our favorite bento place closed overnight.

And luggage retailer Malm one day posted this note on its door: "Thank you for your patronage. After 141 years we are now closed for business."

Photographer Brian Ulrich has been documenting the retail carnage across the nation.

Seen here: a Powerhouse Gym gone dark in Saginaw, Michigan, a dead mall in Akron, Ohio, and a former Dominick's grocery store in Niles, Illinois. More of Ulrich's photos are at motherjones.com/everything-must-go.

